COMMON BONDS

*Common Bonds ...
Teachers, students, parents, brought together by Groveton.*

*Diversity in all forms ...

*The community unites to defend Groveton.
We share it, we live it.
It is our common bond.*

Involvement in the community — it's something Groveton students take for granted. We are the community. By serving in Keys, Keyettes, student teaching programs and volunteer work we are serving ourselves.

If Groveton has a bad image, it is in the eyes of those who do not know us. Those who deal with us directly, from the ladies in Tuesday painting classes to the local candidates assisted by student political groups, know how much we have to offer, how much of ourselves we give.

Community Day, a tradition as old as Groveton, is a symbol of Groveton's role in the community — a common bond between diverse socio-economic backgrounds.

S P I

With Homecoming just around the corner, the students' spirit shone through the halls of Groveton throughout the week.

Monday was "Pajama Day," where students only had to jump out of bed, put on their slippers, grab their stuffed animals, and catch the bus. What a great way of beating the Monday blues. Tuesday was "Double your Spirit Day," where students tied up the phone lines coordinating outfits with would-be twins. There was a big turn out on "Nerd Day" with mix-matched plaids and stripes and taped-together glasses. It was hard to determine just who was in costume. The students went back in time to the fifties on Thursday, dressing up in cardigans and saddle shoes, bringing back memories for most of the teachers. The week ended in shades of "Black and Gold," where people painted their faces, hands, legs, and for some — their whole bodies in celebration of the Groveton spirit.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming . . . a return home . . . a time when past generations come back to join the present . . . a night when those who lived and laughed and grew here return to remember, to be a part of the excitement . . . a time to come together, to share our common bonds.

After an eventful spirit week with dress-up days and selection of princesses, the night arrives with students, parents, teachers, and, of course, graduates, thronging the stands in the football stadium. Cheering their team on against the Edison Eagles, the crowd grew louder as halftime approached and the colorful floats, each representing the theme of seasons," began rolling down the track. They were followed by the eighteen princesses, dressed for the occasion and waving at the crowd from the top of shining convertibles. Excitement and anticipation were in the chilly October air as the princesses and their escorts were introduced and as the 1984 homecoming queen, Stacie Scott, was named and crowned. After halftime, the crowd remained cheering for their school despite the team's loss to the Eagles.

J O B S

Here at Groveton all students share something — Groveton itself. It ties us together. But we also have bonds when we are in the outside world. After the schoolday is over, many of us are still joined as we work at our jobs. Various places, from Route 1 to Olde Towne, represent a Groveton away from Groveton. Students share jobs in such popular places as Haagen Dazs, Bradlees, The Christmas Attic, Erol's, and Sir Walter Raleigh's. Work ties our life at school to our life in the outside world. This is what makes us special; we learn, work, and play together, always sharing our common bonds.

TRENDS

As we reminisce about our years at Groveton, certain trends come to mind along with other memories of the year. Although these trends haven't necessarily played a dominant role in the school year, they do set this year apart from the rest.

We look back on the 50's and think of poodle skirts, sock hops and the beginning of rock and roll. We call the 60's a time for flower children, drugs, and the Beatles. By the 70's a counter reaction was underway, and so was the "me generation."

All of these are stereotypes that we look at and accept, but we rarely wonder how we, as children of the 80's, fit in.

Guess jeans, Forenza sweaters, mini-skirts, and tails stand out as this year's trends.

GRADUA

Somewhere between the freshmen orientation and the senior graduation we grew up. We laughed, we cried, and we acted foolish. We made mistakes and sometimes we stumbled, but there was always someone to pick us up and get us going again. We learned to drive and were driven to learn. We broke some hearts and got our hearts broken. We gave in to peer pressure, but still managed to become ourselves. We talked about our struggles, our dreams, our failures and our triumphs. We sheltered ourselves in each other and in this place.

And somewhere along the line we evolved from pure, helpless eighth grade graduates into legiti-mate human beings with a certain level of resolve. And the anxieties of achieving independence and adulthood that were once only fleeting images on a distant horizon have become burning realities.

Groveton's character is the characters in Groveton. Individuals through achievement, personality, and hard work have made our school what it is. Sure the world around us helps shape us. But the memories that will stay with us will be the people.

Over one million students take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) each year. The top 15% nationwide become National Merit semifinalists. Then they compete for scholarships funded by major corporations.

Every high school in Virginia sends at least one representative to both Girls' and Boys' State. To attend, students apply through their counselors and are picked for their academic records and participation in school activities. Girls; and Boys' State are held for a week during the summer at area colleges. There the students see how the state government runs by forming and running their own government.

Achievement Program — Jeremy Brock

The Achievement Program is another scholarship competition run by the National Merit Foundation. Black Americans who enter the Merit Competition are also eligible to compete for Achievement Scholarships. About 4,500 students are honored for their scores on the PSAT/NMSQT each year through this program.

Girls' State — Sarah Busse

Year in Review

In the 1984-85 school year we witnessed an unusual phase in the evolution of history. It was a time of radical changes . . . of first evers, best evers, biggest and worst evers. And yet it was a time where the mood of the world around us shifted to the inertia of nostalgia.

We saw our first woman presidential candidate in Geraldine Ferraro, and the first serious black contender for nomination in Jesse Jackson. (Not to mention, America's first black, and most controversial Miss America, Vanessa Williams.) Meanwhile, Ronald Reagan swept across the country in one of history's most decisive landslides with the promise of an old fashioned America. And the space shuttle flew its first "Top Secret" mission.

Across the Atlantic, cries of chaos could be heard. In Africa this century's worst famine claimed the lives of thousands. In India, Indira Gandhi was brutally assassinated. The Apartheid Government of South Africa continued to draw protest.

Technology, too, helped bring on dramatic changes in 1984. Baby Fae and her baboon heart created both controversy and optimism. Artificial hearts also made their debut in 1984.

The famous infant 2 weeks before death. 1. 2. 3. 4. 5. 6. 7. 8. 9. 10. 11. 12. 13. 14. 15. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100.

Though the events in the world around us may be of great magnitude, sometimes it's the little things that leave the strongest impressions in our memories. The music world definately left its mark.

Flashwear and breakdancing moved aside for the new fads, like androgynous dressing, inspired by Boy George and Anne Lenox of the Eurhythmics. The sultry Madonna created a trend of her own, and Prince caused an entertainment revolution with the Movie Purple Rain. Bruce Springsteen's tour was one of the most successful ever.

Movies like Beverly Hills Cop with Eddie Murphy and Ghostbusters used Saturday Night Live style comedy to gain success. Mel Gibson, the "sexiest man alive", had a good year. Meanwhile, in T.V. old favorites, Dynasty, Hill Street Blues, and General Hospital, along with the newer Miami Vice, dominated the Nielson ratings.

YOU'RE THE BOSS

The Soviet boycott of the summer Olympic Games was expected to place a damper on all the festivities. However, the 1984 Olympics were, in many ways, the most successful ever. The dynamic Mary Lou Retton charmed the country with her smile. Other American heroes were marathoner Joan Benoit, diver Greg Luganius, and hurdler Edwin Moses. Carl Lewis left the Olympics with four gold medals, but his refusal to take a final attempt at the world record in the long jump tainted his accomplishments.

In 1984, Doonesbury returned. So did the year of the "Yuppy" — (Young Urban Professional) Hemlines moved all over the place, and tails, spiked hair and the bob became more popular. Michael Jackson's hair caught on fire during a Pepsi commercial. And last but not least, Clara Peller told us where we could find the beef.

Each year brings about new and different trends in what we like and what we do; and "What's in" characterizes our attitudes and personalities. We may change, but we will always remember the certain people, places, and things that made 1985 what is was. A Tigerama poll conducted in the spring revealed Groveton's favorites, the special things that we will remember as a major part of our year.

U.S.

D e c i s i o n s

Rumors of Groveton closing have been travelling throughout the school ever since the "new" Groveton was built. The ever-popular rumor that Northern Virginia Community College is buying the property to convert it into one of their campuses was circulated consistently. Even before the Task Force was appointed, converting Fort Hunt to an elementary school was considered a possibility by some students.

In March, 1984, Superintendent William J. Burkholder appointed a citizen's task force to study the problem of declining enrollment in this area of the county. Once again, there was a rumor that a high school may have to be closed, but the task force met over the summer so students didn't give the possibility much thought.

The Mt. Vernon Citizens Task Force, as it was called, was made up of representatives from the Groveton, Fort Hunt, Mt. Vernon, and Hayfield pyramids. They met once a week for six months, trying to find a fair and equitable solution to the problem.

Then, on October 15, they made the announcement. The majority of the group voted to convert Fort Hunt to an intermediate school serving the Groveton pyramid, and send Fort Hunt students to Groveton and Mt. Vernon High Schools. Foster and Bryant Intermediates would be closed, and those students would attend the new Fort Hunt Intermediate.

Groveton was surprised; we never expected it to hit so close to home. Opinions were varied as to whether we wanted the "Fort Hunt kids", though the administrations said strongly that we would welcome them with open arms. Groveton students spoke at the hearings held by Dr. Burkholder in November, reaffirming this platform.

December 7, 1984 is now known as Black Thursday at Groveton High School. On this day, Superintendent Burkholder recommended to the School Board that Groveton be converted to an intermediate school feeding Fort Hunt, and Groveton students be sent in 1985 to either Mt. Vernon or Fort Hunt High Schools.

Immediately the Groveton Community galvanized into action. On December 17, Citizens Associated for Responsible Education — CARE — was formed to save Groveton. Expressing their strong opposition to Burkholder's proposal, CARE stated their commitment to "the best and highest use" of public school facilities.

An impromptu rally was held on December 11 to give students an opportunity to voice their disapproval of what some considered an illogical decision. 300 students as well as the press attended.

On January 7, 400 students turned out in the bitter cold for a candlelight vigil before the meeting where Doris Torrace would explain Burkholder's proposal to the Groveton community. 1000 people packed auditorium in an impressive showing of community spirit.

February 11, CARE held another meeting, at which was released a statement of position: "Of the plans that have been proposed, the only one that fully meets its objectives is the Mt. Vernon Task Force recommendation."

More emotional hearings were held in late February, this time by the School Board. Many Groveton students, parents, and even teachers spoke, urging the School Board to accept the "most logical" proposal — the one made by the Task Force.

Burkholder was given another chance on February 28. He resubmitted his original proposal to the School Board, but he also submitted an alternative to his alternative. Under the new proposal, Fort Hunt would become the feeder intermediate to Groveton, Foster would become the feeder intermediate to Mt. Vernon, and Whitman would close. Groveton administrators, teachers, parents, and students were encouraged by the new alternative: The score was now even between Groveton and Ft. Hunt. All that was left was the School Board's decision on who would finally win.

The Final

March 14, 1985 . . . The long months of debating, rallying, raising money, writing letters, giving speeches, and fighting were over. The communities of Fort Hunt and Groveton had each put up a tough fight, for each knew that losing would mean the end of their school. All that was left was the final decision.

Supporters of both communities packed the Fairfax High School auditorium where the School Board was meeting. As the Board members discussed the situation, the pressure mounted, and faces from both sides grew tense and nervous. Groveton supporters turned pale as Mt. Vernon District member Olivia Michener proposed a motion to close their school. As her motion was defeated on a 5-5 tie vote, the Groveton side erupted into cheers and clapping. But everyone knew it wasn't over yet . . .

After the defeat of the first motion, Lee District member Tony Lane proposed to close Fort Hunt, and the debate among the board continued. Finally the moment arrived for the board to vote: four hands went up to keep Fort Hunt open, while six went up to close it. A roar came from the Groveton side and soon all were cheering, embracing, and even crying in happiness. Meanwhile, the Fort Hunt supporters, looking drained and haggard, shed tears in sadness and frustration. Their institution was gone, and their community, as well as the Groveton community, would never be the same again.

Though Groveton won the battle, the "war" was far from over. The months ahead would bring much disagreement over the details of the merger, and neither side wanted to give anything to the other. Additionally, the hurt feelings, on both sides, needed to be mended.

Decision

The Groveton Community had barely begun enjoying its victory when new problems arose. Principal Paul Douglas was under heavy criticism for taking an active stand in the fight to save Groveton. Ft. Hunt parents wanted him gone while the Groveton community fought to keep the principal who had stood by them in times of crisis. As the 1985 school year approached its end, the fate of Paul Douglas was still in question.

The fate of Groveton too was in question as summer approached. The school board vote to close Ft. Hunt no longer meant the saving of Groveton. In fact, Groveton was to face changes that would result in a school so different, many Groveton students felt that they too had lost their school. Even the administration did not know what mascot, what colors or even what the name of the school they would be coming back to in the fall of 1985.

South Potomic Panthers, Springbank High, and a hyphanated combination are among the possibilities discussed as new names. And with the threat of a name change came new questions. What would athletes do with their letter jackets? How would they choose club presidents? What would they do with the teachers and coaches? Where would graduates go for Homecoming? And through it all, Seniors wondered whether or not they would be the last class ever to Graduate from Groveton High School.

SPORTS

"Greeks wrestled, Egyptians rowed, Roman gladiators fought. To this day the human race loves not only the pleasure of participation but also the spectacle of sports." — Leo Rosten

The games we play at Groveton are more than just games. They are teachers, motivators, and above all, bonders. Athletics bring strangers together in a quest for a common goal, as friends.

Varsity Field Hockey

First in the district, second in the region — and a lot of fun along the way. The 1984 Varsity Hockey team proved its talent, character, and class. After losing the first two district games of the season, the Tiger's prospects looked dim. "Any other group of girls would have given," commented Coach Carol Horton. Instead, the Tigers did the impossible — won eleven straight and were one game short of the state tournament.

Sportsmanship and most outstanding player awards went to co-captains Margie Hunt and Erin Yane respectively.

All the girls on the team deserved the respect they earned. In Horton's words, "They were the best group of people I've ever coached in my seventeen years at Groveton."

Congratulations Tigers. For everything.

"Awesome" was the only word coach Kate Mickey could find to describe her 1984 J.V. team. The adjective fits, for this team went undefeated for first place and scored more goals than any team in Groveton's history. Meaghan Hanrahan received the individual sportsmanship award. Whether or not this team develops into the State champions some are predicting, the 1984 season will not be forgotten.

The Groveton girls tennis team, under the coaching of Adolphus Graves, had a very challenging season and did extremely well, closing the fall competition with a 6-4 record. Cindy Lasker, always trying and never giving up, was awarded Most Outstanding Player and selected as the captain of the 1985-86 girls tennis team. Jamie Howren was selected for the Sportsmanship award for her support and loyalty. One teammate summed, "We had a great season together, but the unforgettable D.Y.B. was the key to our success."

“The best golf team Groveton’s ever had.” Thanks to more confidence, experience, and team work, Groveton has produced another Gunston District Champion team. High spiritedness and an early peak in performance carried the golf team through the winning season. Steve

Bryan, obviously the team leader, received both sportsmanship and outstanding player awards. We would like to congratulate the golf team on their great spirit and talent and hope that next year they will have an equal if not a greater year.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The 1984 Varsity football team struggled through a frustrating season but showed their class through optimism and determination. Outstanding players were Bobby Reddish on offense and Jim Benton on defense. The Tigers, led by captains Frank Burnstein, Jim Benton, and Darrel Payne, improved with each game. Though the Tigers' season ended with high hopes for the future, they lost a good friend and faithful coach Vaughn Lewis to retirement. He will be sorely missed next year.

The Freshmen football team showed the talent and promise of what may become Grovton's best football team ever. Season highlights were victories against Edison, Lee, and Falls Church and a tie against Fort Hunt. Outstanding performances were given by Wayne Reddy, Windell Ford, Mac McMaster, and Robbie Schools. As coach Don Mickeletti said, "We did good with what we had ... this year is just a part of the ability that these kids have ... they never gave up." L to R: Front row — Suzanne Hines, Suzanna Williams, Stacey White, Emma Nocon, Gloria Williams, Kristina Smith.

This year's swim team, one of the best Groveton has ever produced, stroked its way to an outstanding season. Led by experienced seniors Scott Van Horn and Stephanie Sherman and talented underclassmen such as freshman Nick Weiss, the team has become one of the best in the district. With increased participation and a lot of young talent, the team has a promising future and may well become one of the brightest spots in Groveton athletics.

Track is one of the sports at Groveton that traditionally suffers from lack of participation, but always displays outstanding individual performance. This year's team was no exception. Though the team of approximately 20 members placed 5th in the district, Zenny Koehler, John Windish, Jim Benton and many others had excellent seasons.

The wrestling team is traditionally noted for their dedication. These athletes literally starve and exhaust themselves to make weight. Once again the hard work has paid off in the form of a successful season, and in individual performance. Captain Danny Dijames and other star wrestlers have contributed to the success of the '85.

Though the Girls' Varsity Basketball team didn't have much luck in their '84-'85 season, they did have the enthusiasm. The mostly inexperienced team was lead by seniors Meredith Mergler and Anne Ryan. Even though this year's record may not be great, so many young and talented players offer a promising future.

An abstract, stylized illustration of a hand holding a torch. The hand is rendered in dark grey and black tones, with the fingers curled around the handle of the torch. The torch itself is a light grey, conical shape that tapers to a point, resembling a flame or a torch head. The background is a light, neutral color. The overall style is minimalist and modern.

FACULTY

The teachers at Groveton are as diverse as the students, but they are unified in their goal to help each of us achieve all that we can. Sometimes we forget the hard work and long hours each faculty member puts in, inside and outside of the classroom. Yet, we will always appreciate how caring and involved our teachers are here.

FOCUS ON ROGER BOLLAND

After teaching chemistry here for 14 years Roger Bolland is still enthusiastic about Groveton. "It's my kind of place — You never know what to expect." He feels that Groveton's strongest points are its diverse student body and its faculty which speaks out. This year, for the first time, he is sponsoring Groveton's National Honor Society.

The first word that comes to mind to describe Mr. Bolland is "easygoing." One student and long-time admirer of Mr. Bolland says, "He is the kind of teacher you can never get tired of." Even those who don't particularly enjoy chemistry find him friendly, understanding and easy to talk to. Although he is just "one of the guys" much of the time, students respect him a great deal. He is always willing to help his students and is never too busy to sit down with them to work out long problems for the hundredth time. His patience in explaining things to confused students seems almost endless.

Many admire Mr. Bolland for another reason as well; He has a wonderful sense of humor and is a talented storyteller. He is always there to brighten the day with a joke or story. A student claims that he has "more stories than you could ever read in a library." That may be a slight exaggeration, but Mr. Bolland does have a lot of them.

"Hey, did I every tell you about the time . . .?"

JOAN HARTMAN

Joan Hartman plays a dual role at Groveton. She divides her time between Groveton students and younger children in the child care centers housed here.

In the 5 years that Mrs. Hartman has been at Groveton, she has helped to develop several innovative programs. One, piloted last year, is a course called Peer Counseling. Mrs. Hartman and many of the students taking this class feel that it has been successful in opening lines of communication at Groveton.

The infant care center in Groveton, which opened last year, is another, unique program Mrs. Hartman has begun. She and Pam Robertson, of the child care center, developed the idea of the infant center with the hope that it would encourage more teen mothers to remain in school. This year 12 students from all over the county keep their infants in the center while they attend classes at Groveton. Mrs. Hartman believes that this program makes the girls involved become better mothers, by teaching them proper care of their babies and relieving them of some of the tremendous responsibilities they face. "It's hard enough," she says, "for most teenagers to take care of themselves, without a baby to look after."

Mrs. Hartman enjoys teaching children of all ages. Her caring and continual commitment to her students often amazes observers. Students and teachers alike are impressed with her work, which she "loves to do." With her many ideas she is helping Groveton meet the needs of every student. Mrs. Hartman, as one of her students puts it, "is a great teacher who accepts you for what you are."

CLASSES

Spirit rivalry and unity are the things we associate with classes today. But some day we'll remember our classes quite differently — as the people who journeyed with us through high school, and the familiar faces we learned from and taught.

CLASS OFFICERS

This has been a very taxing year for all of those students graduating as the Class of 1985. We've faced many things, but somehow we've always managed to come out on top. We pulled together a first prize float for Homecoming less than two weeks, and the Senior girls were amazingly able to defeat the Juniors in the Powderpuff football game after only one or two practices. Then came the trial of college applications. Tears were shed as everyone received both acceptance and rejection letters from colleges and universities all over the country.

Now is the time for us to look back to our first day at Groveton and to think about how much we've changed since then — most for the better, a few for the worse, but we've all learned so much in the past four years. I'd just like to wish all of the Seniors good luck in future endeavors and to remind them to thank all of the teachers, administrators, and counselors who have cared enough to help us make it through this very important period of our lives.

CLASS OFFICERS

The Junior year is one of metamorphosis; a much greater degree of responsibility brings with it added pressures and anxiety. For the Class of '86, it was finally time to worry seriously about college, and life after graduation; grades took on a much higher importance. There was also the question of the prom: the death of the candy sale would greatly hinder us in our struggle to raise the thousands of dollars necessary for the big May event, but through fundraiser after fundraiser we persisted. Despite the effort of an enthusiastic core of Homecoming float workers, we once again found our niche as uncontested last place finishes. There were ups and there were downs, but when the year was done, a tremendous change was evident. Responsibility had transformed us into serious-minded young adults, and although we never denied ourselves time for recreation, we'd developed a serious concern about our future lives.

CLASS OFFICERS

The Junior year is one of metamorphosis; a much greater degree of responsibility brings with it added pressures and anxiety. For the Class of '86, it was finally time to worry seriously about college, and life after graduation; grades took on a much higher importance. There was also the question of the prom: the death of the candy sale would greatly hinder us in our struggle to raise the thousands of dollars necessary for the big May event, but through fundraiser after fundraiser we persisted. Despite the effort of an enthusiastic core of Homecoming float workers, we once again found our niche as uncontested last place finishes. There were ups and there were downs, but when the year was done, a tremendous change was evident. Responsibility had transformed us into serious-minded young adults, and although we never denied ourselves time for recreation, we'd developed a serious concern about our future lives.

CLASS OFFICERS

This past school year we have worked together as a class to accomplish several goals. We tried to achieve class unity while developing school spirit. We were productive as a class and we strove to achieve as individuals. I feel that the Sophomore class has accomplished all of its goals. We have made a special name for ourselves here at Groveton, and I am proud and lucky to have served this class.

CLASS OFFICERS

I wish I could reminisce about all those good times we've had, but so far there have been so few — because we've only just begun. Then again I couldn't forget the efforts that went into a third place homecoming float, and Community Day, our first big event of the year that gave us our starting dollars.

Well, we'll have more floats, Community days, homecomings, and even someday a prom. But now we are the babies of the school. We've all had to put up with freshmen jokes and will have our chance to tell them. We'll make it like the rest. All I can say is that there will be no turning back. The best is yet to come.
